Inova Schar Cancer Institute (Schar), a new academic/community cancer center in our nation's capital, is a multi-site healthcare system focused on care delivery, translational research and clinically related activities. Known as the "intersection of science and compassion," Schar's renowned clinicians, researchers and emotional support experts work together to treat the whole patient, not just the disease. That collaborative approach to cancer care provides seamless treatment – translating to better outcomes. Schar will open in March 2019.

Please join us for informative and interactive sessions from our experts in lung cancer and survivorship.
